DOCUMENT RESUME

ED 462 370 SO 033 670

AUTHOR	Harrison, David L.
TITLE	Rivers: Nature's Wondrous Waterways.
ISBN	ISBN-1-56397-968-3
PUB DATE	2002-00-00
NOTE	36p.; Illustrated by Cheryl Nathan.
AVAILABLE FROM	Boyds Mills Press, Inc., 815 Church Street, Honesdale, PA 18431 ($15.95). Tel: 800-490-5111 (Toll Free); e-mail Admin@boydsmillspress.com; Web site: http://www.boydsmillspress.com.
PUB TYPE	Books (010) -- Reports - Descriptive (141)
EDRS PRICE	Document Not Available from EDRS.
DESCRIPTORS	*Childrens Literature; *Physical Geography; Primary Education; *Reading Materials; Recreational Reading; *Rivers; *Social Studies
IDENTIFIERS	Trade Books

ABSTRACT

Rivers play a vital role in the life of the planet. They provide water for wildlife, plant life, and people, and they help to fertilize fields where corn and other crops grow. But how were these rivers made? This children's book takes readers/students on a journey down a river from its source at the top of a mountain to its mouth where it meets the sea. The book shows how nature created the river and how the river works within the world. Through clear text and lively illustrations, the book helps young readers understand why rivers are nature's wondrous waterways. Lists six books for further reading. Suggested for ages six through eight. (BT)

Reproductions supplied by EDRS are the best that can be made from the original document.